

EX-820

FOUNDED 10+ Years Ago

- High borrower and employer retention
- Partnership with major digital banks and benefit brokers allow direct access into employer networks
- Low hanging fruit with opportunities for expansion into enterprise customers

The company is a fintech company specializing in student loan benefits with particular expertise in loan forgiveness. It offers a unique blend of proprietary technology and expert advisory services. Its online portal system acts as a combined screening/filtering and enrollment/management system, integrating with payment partners to facilitate loan repayment. The platform is accessible through major employer benefit brokers and payroll platforms and/or directly to individual borrowers.

The company's staff has over ten years experience in providing student loan benefits and their process is focused around combining technology with advising solutions. In addition, they and the Company's proprietary platform can also help customize plans, create long-term relationships, and act as an advisor that is there for the customer. This is especially important as student loan advisory services (both personal and technology-driven) become employer paid benefits, opening a broader network of borrowers to serve and an expanding wide network of corporate lead sources.

Considerable growth opportunities exist for financial platforms looking to bolster student loan advisory services, employee benefits firms looking to supplement with student loan refinancing advisory services, or technology investors looking to capitalize on a growing ARR revenue stream anchored in the $1.8 trillion student loan market.
